Last Sunday was sunny and hot. Julie woke up at nine o'clock. She felt energized and very excited because her friend Molly invited her to go shopping.

After having her meal, she went to the shopping centre. She saw her friend waving at her. She ran to her and said, 'Hello Molly!' Molly also said hello. Then they went to a store called Happy Dress. They bought red dresses and white shoes. Next they played in the park for a long time.

After that, she went home at half past nine at night. She felt exhausted. When she checked her homework handbook, she shouted, 'Oh no! I forgot to study for the Maths test tomorrow. I need to do Maths revision now!' She felt frightened. She slept at ten o'clock at night because she thought she knew everything.

The next day, she fell asleep during the test. After a few days, she found out she failed the test but her friend got full marks in her test. She felt upset. She learned that she needs to do revision every day.

Last Sunday Julie got up at nine o'clock in the morning. The weather was fine. She felt glad because she could go shopping.

Then she went out in the afternoon. Meanwhile, she saw her friend May. Julie ran next to her and they chatted together. They walked to The Wai. They saw some beautiful dresses and shoes. Then they bought some of them.

At nine thirty in the evening, Julie came back home. She felt tired. Then she opened her homework handbook. Suddenly, she shouted loudly, 'Oh no! Maths test tomorrow!' But she did not want to study. Then she got a white eraser and she wrote the notes on it.

The next day, Julie took her eraser out and copied the notes during the test. The teacher found it and said, 'Cheating is bad! I can give you a demerit in the report card! I need to fail you!' She thought she was lucky that she did not get kicked out from school. Julie said, 'Sorry, I will study hard next time!' She learnt that cheating is a bad behavior and she needs to do her revision earlier.
