

Lost on Lantau

5A Chui Yuet Wo

Mr and Mrs Chan went hiking on Lantau last Sunday afternoon. Three hours after they started hiking, they saw the Big Buddha. Mrs Chan decided to go there.

After 30 minutes, the sun was down. It's so dark that they couldn't see the way. They looked for the Big Buddha but they only saw that they were in a forest. They suddenly realized that they were lost! Luckily they saw a man. They asked, 'Excuse me, we are lost. How do we get out of here?' The man replied, 'There is a bus stop 1 km ahead.' And he showed them the way.

They arrived at the bus stop 15 minutes later only to find the last bus of that day leaving. They tried to call a taxi but their phone battery was dying out. 'Oh no! There'll not be another bus today! What should we do?' cried Mrs Chan. 'Let's walk along the road. We may find a way back,' said Mr Chan. So they walked along the road. After a while, they saw the next bus stop. Although they couldn't chase back the bus, there was another bus route they could take at this bus stop.

Finally, they took that bus route back home. They learnt that they should prepare a map and make sure that their phone is fully charged from that day on.

Lost on Lantau

5A Lo Mak Shing

Last Sunday afternoon, Mr and Mrs Chan went to Lantau Island for hiking to see the Big Buddha.

However, they got lost. They wanted to go back home. They were scared and nervous because the sky was getting dark. After a while, they saw a man holding a map. They asked the man where the bus stop was. The man showed them the way. They thanked the man and ran to the bus stop, but the bus was just going away, and it was the last bus on that day. They were anxious.

Suddenly, they saw a car stopping in front of them. It was that man's car. The man took Mr and Mrs Chan to their home. Mr and Mrs Chan were very happy and they became good friends. Also, Mr and Mrs Chan learned a lesson – before doing anything, you need to have a plan.

Lost on Lantau

5C Lee Ho Yan, Emily

Last Sunday afternoon, the weather was sunny and hot. Mr. and Mrs. Chan thought it was perfect to go hiking. They felt excited. They prepared everything but forgot to bring a map.

After a while, they got off the bus and started walking along the path. Suddenly, the sky was getting dark. Mr. and Mrs. Chan got lost. They felt scared because they got lost and didn't know the way home. Nobody was around them. Nobody could help them find the way.

Luckily they saw a man came and had a map in his hands. Mrs. Chan asked, 'How far is it from here to the bus stop? I really hope it isn't far away.' The man showed them the map and replied, 'It's not far. It's only one kilometer. Let me show you the way.'

Unfortunately, when they arrived at the bus stop, they missed the bus. They felt exhausted. Mrs. Chan said, 'That's not good. How can we get back home now?' She sighed in exhaustion.

At that time, they met the man again. Mrs. Chan asked, 'Can we stay in your house for one night? That would be really nice of you because we missed the bus and we forgot to bring a map.' The man replied with a smile, 'You are always welcome to come in anytime! I will prepare some food for you to eat. You must be starving.' They felt thankful and relaxed because the man let them stay in the house for one night. They chatted for a while and ate some food. They started to get along very well and became friends. Mr. and Mrs. Chan learnt that they should prepare well and remember to bring a map before going hiking next time or they will get lost again.